

CollabQuote Privacy Policy

Effective date: September 16, 2026

This Privacy Policy explains how privacy is handled in connection with CollabQuote - UGC Brand Deal Pricing & Rights Toolkit (“CollabQuote” or the “Product”), including the desktop application, license-activation service, and support relating to the Product.

For this Policy, “Seller” means the creator or supplier identified on the CollabQuote Gumroad product page and the purchaser’s Gumroad receipt. “You” means the purchaser or authorized user of CollabQuote.

1. Privacy by design

CollabQuote is designed to keep creator-business information on the user’s device.

The Product does not require a CollabQuote account for ordinary use, does not contain advertising, and is not intended to use behavioral analytics or tracking.

Your deals, brand/client names, quotes, invoices, payment records, Other Revenue records, expenses, tax-planning entries, pricing assumptions, negotiation text, rights dates, and similar business records are stored locally in the application’s device storage unless you intentionally export, back up, print, email, copy, or otherwise share them.

The Seller does not receive those local business records through ordinary Product use.

2. Information processed locally on your device

Depending on the features you use, CollabQuote may store locally:

- creator or business profile information;
- brand and customer information you enter;
- deal, quote, invoice, payment, expense, and revenue records;
- pricing assumptions and presets;
- usage-rights, exclusivity, renewal, deliverable, and payment dates;
- payment-method information you choose to save;
- tax-planning assumptions and estimates;
- negotiation text and notes;
- application preferences, including appearance and workflow settings;
- backup and restore metadata;
- license-activation information necessary to prove that the installation is licensed.

CollabQuote uses IndexedDB or equivalent application-local browser storage within the installed desktop environment for primary application data.

CollabQuote Vault

CollabQuote Vault is intended to encrypt fields designated by the Product as sensitive banking or payment information. Vault protection does not mean that every local CollabQuote field is individually encrypted. Ordinary business records and settings may remain locally stored in the application database.

You are responsible for protecting your computer, operating-system account, backups, exported files, and Vault password. Device encryption, a strong operating-system password, and current system security updates are recommended.

3. Backups and exports

CollabQuote supports local backups and portable exports.

Encrypted CollabQuote backup files may be protected using the Product's backup/Vault security features. CSV, JSON, PDF, spreadsheet-compatible files, or other exports that you intentionally create may be readable without CollabQuote and therefore may not be encrypted.

You control where those files are saved and with whom they are shared.

4. License activation information

Where the installed CollabQuote release uses license activation, initial activation requires an internet connection.

To activate a license, CollabQuote may send the following to the Seller-operated activation service:

- the Gumroad license key you enter;
- a randomly generated installation or device identifier;
- the CollabQuote application version;
- information necessary to issue and validate a signed activation record.

The activation service may send the license key and CollabQuote Gumroad Product ID to Gumroad for purchase/license verification.

The activation service is designed not to persist the raw Gumroad license key. Instead, it may retain:

- a keyed cryptographic fingerprint of the license key;
- Gumroad purchase or sale identifier;
- license status;
- activation identifier;
- a cryptographic hash of the randomly generated installation identifier;
- number of active devices or seats;
- application version;
- activation, last-seen, deactivation, verification, refund, revocation, or similar license-administration timestamps and status information.

The activation service does not need your deals, invoices, revenue, tax estimates, client names, bank information, Vault contents, or CollabQuote backups to activate the Product, and those records are not intended to be transmitted to the activation service.

A licensed installation may periodically contact the activation service when internet access is available to confirm license status. Temporary inability to reach the activation service is not intended to prevent an already activated installation from continuing normal offline use.

5. Connection and server information

When you communicate with the activation service, ordinary internet infrastructure necessarily processes information such as your IP address and request timing.

The CollabQuote activation application is not intended to create advertising profiles from this information. The Seller's hosting provider, reverse proxy, firewall, domain provider, certificate provider, or other infrastructure provider may process limited connection/security logs according to that provider's own practices.

6. Gumroad purchase information

CollabQuote is sold through Gumroad. Gumroad acts as merchant of record/reseller for qualifying digital-product transactions under Gumroad's then-current terms.

Gumroad processes payment information, transaction information, taxes, receipts, refunds, and other purchase information under Gumroad's own terms and privacy practices.

Gumroad may make purchase information available to the Seller through its seller tools, including information such as purchaser email address, transaction or sale identifier, Product purchased, license information, refund/dispute status, and other order-management information.

The Seller may use information made available by Gumroad to:

- provide the purchased Product;
- provide customer support;
- verify or administer licenses;
- handle refunds, disputes, fraud, or abuse;
- provide Product-related communications where permitted;
- maintain records required by law.

This Privacy Policy does not control Gumroad's independent processing. Purchasers should review Gumroad's own Privacy Policy and Terms.

7. Updates

The standard offline Product is not intended to silently upload your business records when checking for Product updates.

Where CollabQuote uses the local Setup-EXE update workflow, the Product may inspect a user-selected installer or the user's local Downloads folder to determine whether a newer CollabQuote installer is available. That local check does not require transmitting creator-business records to the Seller.

If a future CollabQuote release adds an online update service, the Privacy Policy will be updated before that service is used to describe what information the update service processes.

8. Information the Seller does not sell or use for advertising

The Seller does not sell CollabQuote creator-business records to data brokers.

The Product is not intended to use personal information for third-party targeted advertising, cross-context behavioral advertising, or profiling that produces legal or similarly significant decisions.

The Seller does not intentionally use license-activation records to build advertising profiles.

9. Service providers and disclosures

Personal information may be processed or disclosed only as reasonably necessary to operate and support the Product, including to:

- Gumroad, for purchases, license verification, refunds, and transaction administration;
- hosting, networking, reverse-proxy, security, domain, or certificate providers used for the activation service;
- professional advisers or service providers where reasonably necessary for business, accounting, security, or legal purposes;
- governmental, regulatory, law-enforcement, or judicial authorities when disclosure is required by applicable law or valid legal process;
- a successor entity in connection with a merger, acquisition, sale of assets, or similar business transaction, subject to applicable law.

The Seller does not authorize these parties to use CollabQuote information for the Seller's third-party advertising purposes.

10. Data retention

Local CollabQuote business records remain on your device until you delete them, clear the application data, uninstall in a manner that removes the data, or the device/storage is otherwise erased.

License-administration records may be retained for as long as reasonably necessary to:

- administer an active or previously issued license;
- enforce device/seat limits;
- prevent license abuse or fraud;
- handle refunds, disputes, and chargebacks;
- maintain security and audit history;
- comply with legal, tax, accounting, or recordkeeping obligations;

- establish, exercise, or defend legal claims.

The activation service is designed not to retain the raw Gumroad license key after verification.

Gumroad maintains transaction records under its own retention obligations and policies.

11. Security

The Seller uses reasonable technical and organizational safeguards appropriate to the Product, including local Vault encryption for designated sensitive fields, cryptographic license records, and HTTPS for the public activation service when deployed for production.

No system can be guaranteed completely secure. CollabQuote encryption does not protect against malware, an attacker with access to an unlocked computer, compromised operating-system accounts, insecure exports, or loss of a Vault password.

12. Your privacy choices and rights

You can delete or edit most CollabQuote business information directly in the Product and can export your information using the Product's available export tools.

Depending on where you live and whether a privacy law applies to the Seller, you may also have rights to request access, correction, deletion, or a portable copy of personal information, or to opt out of certain sales, targeted advertising, or profiling.

CollabQuote does not sell personal data or use it for third-party targeted advertising as described above.

To make a privacy request concerning information controlled by the Seller, contact the Seller using the contact method shown on the CollabQuote Gumroad product page or by replying to your Gumroad purchase receipt. The Seller may need to verify the request before acting on it and will respond within the period required by applicable law.

For information controlled by Gumroad, submit the request directly to Gumroad under Gumroad's privacy procedures.

13. Children

CollabQuote is a business/productivity tool and is not directed to children under 13. The Seller does not knowingly seek to collect personal information from children under 13 through the activation service.

If you are not legally able to enter into a binding purchase or software-license agreement where you live, a parent, guardian, or other authorized adult must act on your behalf.

14. International use

CollabQuote may be purchased from multiple countries. The Seller-operated activation service may be hosted in the United States or another location selected by the Seller, and Gumroad may process purchase information in locations described in Gumroad's policies.

Where applicable law requires additional safeguards for international transfers, those legal requirements continue to apply.

15. Changes to this Privacy Policy

The Seller may update this Privacy Policy to reflect Product changes, security practices, legal requirements, or service-provider changes.

The current version will identify its effective date. Material changes will be communicated through a reasonably appropriate Product, Gumroad, download-page, or other customer-facing notice when required by applicable law.

16. Contact

Questions or privacy requests concerning CollabQuote may be sent to the Seller by:

- replying to the Gumroad receipt for the CollabQuote purchase; or
- using the Seller contact method displayed on the CollabQuote Gumroad product page.

Questions about Gumroad's independent processing should be directed to Gumroad.